

Toddler

Contributed by muineach
Thursday, 20 April 2006

2002I’m at a party in a small flat with one bed, there are also some family around (can’t remember if it was my family). This woman (30ish) was taking to another guy, she leaves him and comes over to me and falls into my arms on the couch. We laugh and kiss, badly at first, more laughing than anything else, then we kiss properly until she things its great, then we start to fool around a bit, the she says she cant and gets up and leaves the room.

5 minutes later she arrives back in with her toddler, the toddler has been crying, more of the family come it, its starts to feel aqward. They all stay till dawn and then leave. The family are all talking between themselves, saying what they think of me to each other, but not saying anything to me.